STEAKHOUSE

“If sinners be damned, at least let them leap to Hell over our dead bodies. And if they perish, let them perish with our arms wrapped about their knees, imploring them to stay. If Hell must be filled, let it be filled in the teeth of our exertions, and let not one go unwarned and unprayed for.”

10 COMMANDMENTS OF FAMILY DEVOTIONS

- Tip #1: Thou shalt not make devotions boring. Make them lively and inviting. If the weather is nice, get out of the house. Have devotions in different places in the house, and not the same place every time.
- Tip #2: Thou shalt not make your devotions too long. Rambling on and on is not an effective way to keep your kid's attention. Get to the point.
- Tip #3: Thou shalt use object lessons for devotions. Having things that your family can feel and hold will really liven things up. For instance, if you are doing a devotion on Noah and the Flood, use stuffed animals, fill a tupperware bowl with water and have a small boat to float on it. Use your imagination!
- Tip #4: Thou shalt be knowledgeable about the devotion. The devotion will be more enticing if you flow with your words. Stumbling and checking back to references can become frustrating to those listening to you.
- Tip #5: Thou shalt make devotions at a routine time. It is a good idea to have them at the same time. This way family members will know when to expect them.
- Tip #7: Thou shalt incorporate real life lessons. While reading from the Bible about a particular event and the lesson it provides, show your family how you have applied this lesson to your life. Offer anyone who has had any related experiences to share with the family. Make the devotion real.
- Tip #8: Thou shalt be respectful of the different age groups. When having devotions, use different levels of discussion questions and activities to suit each family member. You will still be learning the same lesson, but on an age-appropriate scale.
- Tip #9: Thou shalt switch things up and let different family members lead the devotions. It is a good idea for the parents to lead the devotions so the kids can get familiar with how things run. But, giving other family members a chance to lead the devotion periodically will make them more excited about what they are learning.
- Tip #10: Thou shalt understand that not all devotions have to be totally serious. Adding humor and laughter to the devotion will make better memories for the family. But do make sure the Bible truth has gotten across to everyone and that they understand the underlying seriousness of learning God's Word.

Best of all...have a blast! Devotions are a great way for families to bond closer to each other, while getting closer to God.
